

ABSTRACT

SIGNALLING MEANS FOR SENSOR ARRAYS

A sensing device in the form of a sensing array includes sensing elements on a first integrated circuit and means for processing the signals on 5 a second integrated circuit. The output of the sensing elements is sampled, modulated on to a carrier signal and transferred from the first to second integrated circuits wherein it is demodulated and passed to a processing means.

10 Figure 1.